the local union under international supervision temporarily, until such time as the present controversy or difficulty is properly adjusted.
No comment was forthcoming from any of the Union's officers.

Executive Board Split
However, some union members have revealed that the controversy is the result of a split between the three business agents, Union president Wally Elliott, and Union Trustees John Anderson and Danny Anderson, and Haskell Tidwell, secretary-treasurer. Likewise, it was reported, the split has extended to the executive board, where members are divided evenly, half for Tidwell and half for the three business agents.

Elliott is a charter member of the Local 905, and Tidwell, also a charter member, has been its secretary-treasurer for some 20 years. Elliott was elected president a few months ago, succeeding Bob Watson who resigned in August, presumably due to the internal dispute.

It is understood that audit of the local's books by the international is in progress, and that it will take a two-third vote of the union members to make any changes in the officer setup of the union. Whether or not such a vote will be called tonight was a matter of conjecture among local members.

Oil Wells . . .

the result of his survey and contacts with oil men 13 wells have already been equipped with safety fences, five oil sumps have been fenced and two sumps have been filled in and leveled off.

Co-operation
Powell stated that he has had the co-operation of most of the major producers, but stressed the importance of city legislation for the safety fences around the wells.

He added that he is making an effort now to have obsolete oil derricks, which no longer have pumps, removed to eliminate one more hazard that exists in the oil fields.
